Clearview Express Bus to Roll Monday

Another express bus line will begin next Monday this time from the Clearview-Whitestone area. The new route means that Fresh Meadows, Bay Terrace, Douglaston, Oakland Gardens, Beechhurst, Clearview and Whitestone residents now can travel by express bus to Manhattan.

The Queens Transit Corp., which runs the other routes, also will run the new one. The program was suggested by Director of Franchise Morris Tarshis, Traffic Commissioner Theodore Karagheuzoff and Borough President Sidney Leviss.

Buses will depart from 211th St. and 18th Ave. at 7:05, 7:23, 7:40 and 7:55 AM, for points along Avenue of Americas between 34th St. and Central Park South.

They will travel via 211th St., 23rd Ave., Corp. Kennedy St., 26th Ave., Utopia Pkwy.,

166th St., Powells Cove Blvd., 160th St., Cross Island and Whitestone Pkways., Northern Blvd., Queens Midtown Tunnel and 34th St.

Running time will vary with traffic conditions from 55 to 60 minutes.

In the afternoon, busses will depart from 35th St. and Avenue of Americas at 5:05, 5:20, 5:35 and 5:55.

Stops to pick up passengers will be made on Avenue of Americas at 35th St., 43rd St., 50th St., and 56th St. Pick-up stops will also be made at 59th St. and 5th Ave., 59th St. and Madison Ave., Lexington Ave. and 59th St., 3rd Ave. and 59th St., 2nd Ave. and 59th St.

The fare will be $1 each way -- with a weekly commutation ticket selling at $8.50, available from bus operators on Monday mornings. These commutation tickets will be of the "flash" type and will be honored throughout the week in which they are sold.

The "exact fare" plan will be in effect. Bus operators will make no change for boarding passengers, as is the general practice throughout the city.

As the pattern of patronage develops, additional trips will be added. All-day service will also be established should a demand for it develop.

Battle Rages Over School Zoning Lines

The battle lines have been drawn in the fight over the zoning lines for Marie Curie Junior High School 158 in Bayside and Intermediate School 25 in Auburndale. On one side is the new Community School Board 26 and Curie Principal Harold Kobliner; on the other is the central Board of Education.

The District 26 board fired the first shot at its meeting Monday when, minutes after rehiring Mrs. Josephine O'Brien as district superintendent, it ordered her not to allow the 59 graduates of PS 118 in Hollis to attend Curie, which they were scheduled to enter, and to allow 1969 and 1970 graduates of PS 130 and 159, both in Bayside, the option of attending Curie instead of I.S. 25, where the central board said they should go.

The central board zoning lines would send several hundred students to I.S. 25, which is in District 25, who would otherwise have gone to Curie. Some of the vacant seats at Curie would then be filled by black pupils bused into the area from Hollis.

But the District 26 board rejected these plans, saying they would have a harmful effect on JHS 158, a "naturally integrated" school where 16 per cent of the pupils are black.

Dr. Kobliner pursued the matter Tuesday night at the Board of Education meeting when he attacked the board for refusing to give up on its plan to take 312 white students from Curie and PS 130, 159 and 169 and bus them to I.S. 25.

He told the board, after presenting a detailed ethnic study of all the schools feeding into I.S. 25 and JHS 194, that the result of the change in zonelines would have more students being taken from 158 than would be coming in.

"The community surrounding 158 includes middle class blacks who are homeowners within the enclave of the white community. Both the middle class white and black parents are extremely anxious to preserve the ethnic balance now prevalent in 158," Dr. Kobliner said.

He said the results of pouring more white students into I.S. 25 would be further segregation of that school and disturbing the

City Promises Sanitation Services Will Improve

Sanitation service -- which has been sporadic at best and practically non-existent at worst -- may be looking up. At least that's the word from Environmental Protection Administrator Jerome Kretschmer.

The new administrator said the first of about 1,500 additional sanitationmen were on the street last week, 2 1/2 weeks ahead of schedule, with some of them in this area. More are promised this week and next and throughout the summer, he said.

In local districts, three men were added in District 60, which covers College Point, Whitestone, Malba, Beechhurst and part of Bayside and Flushing; 10 in District 61, which includes South Flushing, Kew Gardens Hills and Queensboro Hill; four in District 62, which covers part of Bayside and Auburndale, and four more in District 63, which includes Little Neck, Floral Park, Bellerose and Glen Oaks.

While the numbers only scratch the surface of the problem, at least it is a step in the right direction.

Kretschmer predicted full restoration of services in Queens by October. "We will keep bringing in new men and equipment through September and then we will sit down with the people in Queens and talk about whatever problems remain," he promised.

He also said there wouldn't be any more promises of better service until the department is sure it can live up to them.

The local area has suffered not only from reduced service but from inconsistent schedules. Sometimes garbage isn't picked up for a week, other times the trucks come by twice in 12 hours.

Regatta's On Sans Invitations

There WILL be a Bayside Invitation Regatta this year -- and no invitation is necessary.

That was the announcement from Angus Henderson, race chairman of the Bayside Yacht Club, who announced that all those who want to compete only have to show up at the committee boat at 2 PM on Saturday, Aug. 1 and they will be assigned divisions.

The committee said two races will be conducted, with rules of the Little Neck Bay Tri-Clubs prevailing.

Henderson said the club failed to appoint a regatta committee, which normally handles details, but when inquiries came in, he decided to hold the regatta anyway.

Philharmonic In Crocheron On Saturday

All roads lead to Crocheron Park again Saturday night as the New York Philharmonic opens its sixth season of free concerts in the park. This year there will be three concerts -- Saturday, next Saturday, August 1, and Friday, August 14.

The concerts are part of the summer-long program of music in Crocheron Park that began with three performances by the Metropolitan Opera and also will include a jazz show by the New York Shakespeare Mobile Theater '70 on Friday, July 31.

Music lovers attending the Philharmonic concert were urged to come early because another large crowd is expected. The operas this year and concerts in past years have drawn upward of 30,000 persons to the park.

There are no seats available so blankets, pillows or folding chairs are recommended. Those with chairs are seated from the mid-point of the park back so as not to block the view of those who prefer to lie on the grass.

The concerts are sponsored by the city Parks Department, the Philharmonic and the Schlitz Brewing Co. The Bayside Historical Society assists in promotion, arranging parking and acts as host to the performers.

Dean Dixon, New York-born music director of the Hessischer Rundfunk Orchestra of Frankfurt, Germany, since 1961, will conduct this week's concert. The soloist will be violinist James Oliver Buswell IV, who will play Sibelius' Violin Concerto.

Also on the program are Henze's "Trois Pas de Tritons" from Ondine and Brahms' Symphony No. 2.

As in the past, the concerts will be given in the Mrs. Charles S. ("Minnie") Guggenheimer Shell. The portable shell weighs over 60 tons and is constructed on four large trailers which move from borough to borough after each concert.

Sixten Ehrling, music director of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, will conduct the second concert during which pianist Earl Wild will perform Rachmaninoff's Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini. Ehrling last conducted the Orchestra during its 1967 Parks Concerts.

Rafael Frühbeck de Burgos, music director of the National Orchestra of Madrid, will conduct the final concert. Soloist will be Alicia de Larrocha, Spanish-born pianist, who will perform Falla's Nights in the Gardens of Spain and Ravel's Concerto in G.

Golden Eagles Soaring High

The Sacred Heart Golden Eagles, a corps consisting of drums, bells and bugles, has won many honors under the leadership of Reginald S. Lewis, a Bayside music teacher and its moderator, Father Connley of Sacred Heart RC Church.

A trophy was presented to them on June 26th by the American Legion for the "Best Musical Marching Unit" at the annual Queensboro Convention.

The corps also sponsored a competition at Benjamin Cardozo High School Athletic Field with the New York State Five and Drum Association, coming away the winner with the following awards: first prize in main stand competition for novice boys; Joanne Hickey, first prize on bell lyre as a novice soloist, and Mathew Bellas, first prize on bugle (valve) as a novice soloist.

WORKSHOP

The North Shore League of Women Voters will hold the second in a series of summer workshops Wednesday from 10 AM to noon at the home of Mrs. Robert Delson, 52-08 Redfield St. The workshops are open to all but are aimed primarily at new members and persons 18-21.
